"That Farm of Mine."

BY E. M. TEWKSBURY, CATAWISSA—READ AT FARMERS' INSTITUTE, MILLVILLE, JANUARY 10TH, 1889.

In the discussion of this subject there is so much to be said that I am at a loss where to begin, and in view of the fact, that so much has been said, and so well said, about farming, I am troubled what to say.

To discuss this subject as the title of this paper would seem to indicate that it would be treated—"That Farm of Mine"—might bring upon me the charge of egotism, or desiring to present my own farm, and air my own surroundings. This is not my desire, nor my intention. I desire to state some facts, advance some ideas or theories, that may not simply please, but profit; that will set in motion a train of thought that will result in good to the farmer.

I shall therefore present, for the present at least, "That Farm of Mine" in a general sense. In the first place I want the law making, or rather law muddling powers, to keep their hands off "That Farm of Mine"; that is to say, I want no laws enacted for the especial benefit of "That Farm of Mine." Why? To have a legal enactment either State or National for my particular interest must most certainly be opposed to the individual interest of somebody else and their business, and thereby engender strife, and contempt of my business. The best protection that can be afforded me and "That Farm of Mine," is to be "severely left alone." I tell you sir, what I do want is just what the story says the old woman wanted when her husband and the bear had a fight, that was "every body should stand back and give them fair play." "That Farm of Mine" wants fair play. It does not want to be tied hand and foot and thrown in the river and asked to swim by the side of every other business, untrammeled and unfettered. I desire to present "That Farm of Mine" at present as an individual, living, moving and having a being among other individuals, entitled to all the rights, privileges and protection of any other individual, and no more, but just so much. I demand that "That Farm of Mine" shall be treated in every legal respect as an equal with any other business set up along side of it and that no enactment shall be made compelling by law that it shall pay five dollars out of every six dollars of the taxes levied for the public need. As an individual, that farm of mine has rights that every other individual is bound to respect. Why? Because my farm has to yield its individual rights to the rights of others; therefore, others morally are bound by the same law. That farm of mine has no moral right to turn out upon the highway its cattle, horses, sheep and dogs, to forage and pillage upon the lands of another, compelling him for self-preservation to fence and fortify against the stock of my farm; hence, no other farm has a right morally, neither do I believe legally, to compel my farm to fence against its stock turned out to pasture in the public highway. I may be met just here by the question, is not the public highway a public place? I answer, yes. It is a public place for public travel, but not for public or private pasture. My far , for instance, has a public road laid out by law through it for one-fourth of a mile thirty-three feet wide. For what purpose? The order of court for opening of said road says it is for public travel. Who presumes that any one of my neighbors, or anybody else has a right, moral or legal, to put up anywhere along that eighty rods of road a hog pen, cow or horse stable. If then you have no right to stable on my land taken for public travel, what right can you possibly have to pasture? You have a right to drive your cattle along that highway, but no right to turn them therein to pasture. If all cattle found upon the public highway without a driver or keeper, were taken up and treated as estrays, in my opinion it would be doing not only the land owners, but the cattle owners as well, a great favor. If there is any class of animals I pity it is those turned out upon our highways to struggle for an existence, subjected to the assaults of the vexed land owners, as he and "Tige" gives the old brindle cow, with crumpled horn and looks all forlorn, exercise up and down the road, ceasing only when one or all are completely exhausted.

Having treated imperfectly, as must be in a paper like this, "That Farm of Mine," as a person or individual, I desire now briefly to consider it as an object or thing. "That Farm of Mine," in the first place must be well fenced Benjamin Franklin said, "first fortify, then beautify." In considering this feature, I am taking the law of course as it is not as it should be, in relation to my farm. What do I mean, you ask, by a good fence? I mean one no matter of what material, that shall be able to "repel invasion and suppress insurrection." One, that by its very appearance declares emphatically to all riotous cattle "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther." Economy must be used in laying out the line of fences, and arranging the fields, so that not an unnecessary rod of fence is built thereon. In the first place "That Farm of Mine" must consist of but one field, and then sub-divide into lots, such as are absolutely necessary for the use of the farm. "That Farm of Mine" must not be pastured to any very great extent, therefore I shall not need many inside fences.

We talk of taxes, and tariffs, and reduction of revenues, and all that, but the greater tax or tariff upon that "Farm of Mine" is the fence tax and and must be reduced. This can not be done by letting it "go to the dogs" for generally the more dogs the poorer the fence, if not farm; but by a judicious overhauling, re-arranging and careful study of the whole subject.

Having now fenced that farm of mine I am prepared to stock it. What shall that stock consist of? There must be a few good sheep on that farm of mine. No matter whether wool be taxed, or put upon the free list, of imported raw material, sheep there must be. Why! If I pasture my farm with them, they rid it of briars, brambles and weeds. The wild carrot and white daisy becoming so general, are greedily and readily eaten by sheep, and are perfectly eradicated where they are allowed to run. Their flesh makes the best and most wholesome food, while for clothing and bedding how glorious is their fleece! The other animals of the farm I shall not dispute with you about. If you want a Percheron or a pony, a Morgan or a Hambletonian horse, it is all the same to me, only I ask that the eternal fitness of things be observed and that you get the right horse in the right place, and have that regard for him that you can say "My kingdom for a horse." On that farm of mine, of course cattle and cows will form the principal stock. Why? Because, unless you make the raising of horses a specialty, they are the essential thing upon the farm by way of health, wealth and comfort, and general utility.

Milk, butter, beef and leather have been, and now and ever will be in demand in civilized society. More and more as the population becomes dense do we find the demand increasing for milk, and you will observe that in the large cities, next to the demand for water comes the call for milk. You will some of you remember that last winter during the two days' blizzard that shut off the milk supply of New York city that twenty-five cents per quart was offered for milk in the market. The time was when the doctors bled, blistered, gave calomel and iron in some form to cure or kill or give strength to their patients. Now they order milk even in cases of fever. I am told that the inebriate asylums, instead of giving them milk punch and other stimulants to wean their patients from the intoxicating cup they give them pure hot milk. Of course there is none of us here that need hot milk and perhaps I should not have spoken of it. Butter, pure butter, that obtained from the churning of cream, will always more and more be an article of demand among our population. Beef will ever be a prime necessity of the people of all lands and climes. For another reason, "That Farm of Mine" must keep the line of stock indicated is, that the general fertility of the soil must be kept up and enhanced from its own resources. Barnyard manure is the great fertilizer needed by the American farmer, with plenty of that he needs nothing else to enrich his wasting soil. That farm of mine must have an abundant supply of fruit both of the smaller and larger varieties. Not simply a plant here, a briar, vine and tree there, in a haphazard way, but there must be system, and variety not only for profit, but for beauty and utility. Flora may bring her garland of flowers, rich in perfume of the field and bowers, Ceres may come burdened by her load of grain, the rich harvest of field and plain; but, unless Pomona comes, the goddess of fruits, with her offerings from plant, vine and tree, the feast to me is incomplete. As the subject of fruits has been or will be specially discussed by others I pass from this branch of my subject to the buildings upon that farm of mine. The house should be sufficiently large for comfort, convenience and home purposes; and, so arranged internally that the greatest amount of heat can be diffused with the least amount of fuel burned. It has been ascertained by some one who has investigated the case that four-fifths of the fuel burned goes up the stove pipe; therefore, it seems to me very necessary to so arrange the house that all this heat may be utilized. Some people are very fond of cold sleeping rooms, but for my part, I am partial to warm quarters—a warm house. While the farm-house should be large and roomy, or rather full of rooms, it should not be so large as to make slaves of its occupants. The kitchen should be the room of the house. Around it let every other room revolve—let that be the centre. Every farm house should be built so that in it there may be a hospital room or two, connected, yet separate from the living part of the house. To that end every room should be connected by doors for the convenience of the occupants and the general diffusion of heat. The outbuildings, such as summer cookhouse, coal, wood, and other necessary outbuildings should be all connected and under roof, so that the aged, infirm, and all may enjoy the greatest amount of possible convenience. The cellar should be the largest and best room in the house, and in it should start all the flues or chimneys of the house.

The barn should be a bank barn, large and roomy, thirty-six feet wide, and after you get it forty feet long, then add one foot for every acre of cultivated land, and you have about the right proportion for the average farm. There must be sufficient shed room for straw and corn-fodder. On a farm where one hundred acres are cultivated should require a storage capacity of one hundred tons. A barn thirty-six feet wide and one hundred feet long will give that, besides the bank for stabling, and there must be enough of that to perfectly shelter every hoof kept on "That Farm of Mine," sheep included. None of the stock must be allowed to seek shelter on the south side of a barbed wire fence, with a straw stack in the distance. That's cruelty to animals, and a shame to civilization, to say the least of it. The yard connected with the barn must also be large and convenient. Connected with it must be the hog pens, and other necessary barn outbuildings. The implements of the farm when not in use must be as perfectly housed as is the stock. These outbuildings and barn must be sufficiently far from the house building that in no event will they be subject to one fire, and all insured in some good farm insurance company. The barn buildings should have a hospital room or two, as well as the house. Ordinarily, box stalls in the bank barn if properly arranged are sufficiently warm for general hospital use. What farmer has not felt the necessity of a warm room for some sick animal? I repeat, let there be a good barn hospital, where you can put a stove, and keep your animal at a blood heat if need be. Hundreds of dollars may thereby be saved to the farm. Last, but not least of the building arrangements, a never failing supply of pure water must be at hand. Locate, if possible, the farm buildings so that a supply of water may be obtained through pipes by gravitation from some good spring upon higher ground. If this cannot be done, let the next best thing be done, take the water from your building roofs into good cisterns, well cemented, which are preferable to poor wells for both house and barn use. Co-operation will some times secure two or more farms with an abundant water supply, where it would be next to impossible for one farm to obtain it by gravitation. Here allow me to say that co-operation is a word poorly understood by the American farmer. Every other business co-operates, combines, forms pools, trusts, syndicates, and are vested by co-operate powers, while "That Farm of Mine" stands all alone, a prey to the combinations and trusts, depreciating in intrinsic value at least ten per cent. per annum, it behooves me to inquire what shall I do? I answer, co-operate, meet together, talk together, work together, buy and sell together, and if possible be freemen, depositing together our votes only for men who are true to the principle of making all equal before the law. The Bible speaks of co-operation:

Isaiah XLI., 6 7:

They helped everyone his neighbor: and every one said to his brother, Be of good courage.

So the carpenter encouraged the goldsmith, and he that smootheth with the hammer, him that smote the anvil, saying, it is ready for the sodering; and he fastened it with nails, that it should not be moved.

Proverbs XXVII., 17-18:

Iron sharpeneth iron; so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend.

Whoso keepeth the fig-tree shall eat the fruit thereof.

Galatians VI., 2:

Bear ye one anothers burdens, etc.

Having thus ramblingly and hastily passed over two points of my subject, I will now briefly discuss the third, and last point, in a different strain as to where "That Farm of Mine" shall be.

"That Farm of Mine," no matter where—
In zone torrid or temperate,
In latitude south or north,
In altitude high or low;
Whether out on prairie wild
With Nature's green sod
Piled up to shelter me,
For neighbors only
The fast receding red man;
Or, in valley old, rich and fertile,
With ancestral halls in which
For generations my fathers trod,
On whose walls the trophies
Of their prowess hang—
That farm of mine, no matter where,
No farm it surely is
Unless thereon a home is found.
A home! a home! aye, a shrine!
Where generations may gathered be
Comfort and rest to find.
Husband, wife, and children, too,
Olive plants, some call them,
A haven here find at home,
Upon that farm of mine.
From fashion, guile, deceit, how free!
Free? free as the air they breathe.
In character and life, how pure
That home upon that farm of mine!
Pure! pure as the limpid streams
From which they quench their thirst
When noonday heat upon them fall
As from morning labors they return.
A home, strong, oh, how strong
It should be upon that farm of mine.
Strong in rectitude and right,
For God and man a power
To stay the tide of corruption's
Blighting, withering curse;
Strong as the everlasting hills
Standing all about us
By God's own hand set up,
Of his power the monuments.
That farm of mine a home must have
Wherein are taught precepts
That shall guide hand and
Head, and heart as well.
A place, a home, a mother's shrine
It must be. There are her jewels.
Earth yields no such gems.
From God's own rich diadem
They came like stars to shine
In the mother's crown
Till he shall call for them again.
A question here I ask,
Dear friends, and dear friends I mean,
Where else on earth's green round,
In city, town or mart, find you
Such open doors and wide
For good and doing good,
As on that farm of mine is found?
That farm of mine, no matter where—
Whether on sides of two converging hills,
Or nestling in some quiet yale
Where rippling brooks forever run,
Or beside the stronger flowing stream,
Like your own fair Fishing creek;
Pure mountain stream!
Out from 'neath mountain side
In streams perpetual doth pour
Like arterial currents down,
Through valleys fair and scenery grand,
Till mingling with the stronger flood
Of Susquehanna's widening current,
Through valleys rich and fertile,
Till at last with ocean wave
Finds rest. That farm of mine
May be close nestled
'Neath the base of mountain,
Where beast so wild did roam,
And savage men uncivilized
Their wigwams made. But now,
The homes of men are here;
Friends hither came; green woods
Into fertile fields were made.
That farm of mine, where shall it be?
Friends, Chairman kind, please let
That farm of mine, for now,
Located be just here.
Just here, where Friendship,
Love and Truth, Angelic guests,
I trust are ever found.

IN GUY'S (London) Hospital Reports, vol. I, page 395, is found the statement: "Simple hypertrophy (enlargement) of the heart, especially of the left ventricle, is found without valvular incompetency. In this numerous class the cardiac is secondary (a symptom) to the renal affection." This explains why Warner's Safe Cure is effectual in cases of heart disease. It removes from the blood the kidney acid which causes the heart disease.

"They will pay for my joke on publication," groaned Crabley, as he dropped the editor's note to the floor. "Great Scott! I wanted that money for a board bill, not a tombstone!"

That tired feeling
Afflicts nearly every one in the spring. The system having become accustomed to the bracing air of winter, is weakened by the warm days of the changing season, and readily yields to attacks of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed. It tones and builds up every part of the body, and expels all impurities from the blood. Try it this season.

Harrison as a Physiognomist.

HOW THE PRESIDENT AMUSES HIMSELF READING THE FACES OF HIS VISITORS.

[Washington Letter to Philadelphia Telegraph.]

President Harrison is a physiognomist. He has great confidence in his ability to read character through the expressions of the human face. There is a fascination for him in the pursuit of this theoretical science. He has an abundant opportunity just now to gratify this fancy. While the throng of eager office-seekers press upon him and pour their arguments into his ear, fondly hoping to convince the court by an ex parte statement of their cases, the President is carefully reading their countenances. In this way he forms an idea of the men he has to deal with, and at the same time amuses himself. Now and then when a face especially interests him, he will detain its possessor for a moment and betray him in a variety of expressions by cross-questioning in a manner to put the man off his guard or disturb him with emotions.

Mr. Harrison has been a Senator himself and knows how it is with them in this matter of indorsement. He knows how they are cajoled or coerced into recommending parties for appointment of whom they know little or have little confidence in. He consults the Congressmen of his party, but has almost as much confidence in his own judgment of human nature as in their recommendations. When he has studied a man's face and cross questioned him, if the impression is not favorable it would take a good deal of argument and very strong influence to make him think favorably of the man for appointment. I know of a man now in Washington who is being recommended in the strongest possible manner for a certain very important appointment. While he may be suited for the position there is something in his face and manner that is the reverse of that of the ideal man for this office of dignity.

One of his prominent supporters, who is a very astute gentleman, was quick to recognize that his friend would not make a good impression upon the physiognomist at the White House. He intimated as much to the candidate, and that gentleman, although he has been here since March 4, has never called at the White House nor let the President know of his presence at the Capital. Mr. Harrison is an accomplished cross-examiner. He acquired this at the bar, and has quite a reputation in the Indiana courts for the sharpness of his questions. What he can't make out of the candidate's face he endeavors to learn by cross-questioning his backers, when a Senator or member goes to recommend the appointment of a constituent to some office, Mr. Harrison's first aim is to ascertain by carefully put questions whether or not the Senator or member is very anxious about the matter. Satisfied as to this he proceeds to discover his motive in asking the appointment and whether he really knows the man. All this is done by diplomatic questioning.

Mr. Harrison remembers what he learned by this examination of the multitudes. A hundred cases are brought to his attention each day, but he seldom knows what he will do with any of them until the moment he is about to act. He then sends for 'Lije' to bring the papers in a certain case. As he goes over those his personal impression of the candidate goes a long ways towards influencing the selection,

How a Circus is Run.

THE RULES GOVERNING BARNUM'S ATTRACTIONS.

The following statement of J. A. Bailey, of the firm of Barnum & Bailey, the great circus owners, appears in the current number of the Epoch:

"The amount of money invested in a large circus like ours, and the daily expenses are something enormous. Barnum & Bailey's United Shows represent an invested capital of $3,000,000, and the expenses aggregate $6,800 a day. A bill was recently introduced in the Connecticut Legislature to impose a tax on circuses—one in the nature of an income tax. It may surprise the public (as it did the Solons of the Nutmeg State, to whom we presented our books), to learn that we make only three cents' profit on each ticket we sell during the season. Our treasurer has made a sworn statement of this fact; our profit is small but it comes from immense numbers. All the expenses of the show are included in the $6,800; our advertising costs us nearly as much as the show itself; our bills for lithograph printing alone for the season will amount to $125,000. The smaller programmes are printed by the million and scattered broadcast in every town we visit. The salaries of performers range from $20 to $250 a week; the riders and the aerial performers receive the highest pay. After each show the receipts are counted by the treasurer, whose account is balanced within half an hour after the performance, our treasurer and our bookkeeper being exceptionally quick at their work. As our business is for cash, there is not much difficulty in keeping the accounts. Every day is a salary day; the musicians are paid one day, the workmen another. Some performers get their salary one day and others on another day. There are nearly seven hundred people connected with the show. One item of expense which amounts to $50 a day is the system by which our patrons are protected from pickpockets and improper characters. We have in charge of a captain four Pinkerton detectives, who are on the lookout for suspicious characters of all sorts; they prohibit gambling on the streets and work in connection with the officers of the town as far as possible.

"The proprietors of a great circus calculate beforehand its popularity from the business or money-making point of view. The number of cities and towns that we visit during a season is determined by the financial condition of each town, its general prosperity, the number of circuses it has had in the past years and whether or not it is a railroad centre to which people living within a radius of sixty or a hundred miles can be easily drawn. We 'prospect' for the most eligible places, the same as a man does for a business site. I have an agent whose special business it is to draw up a plan of the route, which is submitted to me. The selection of a good route is the result of years of experience.

"Some days of the week certain towns will be very bad for our business on account of a local cause; on other days, when factory hands are paid off; our receipts will be very large.

"The people of a country town will sometimes subscribe from $5,000 to $10,000 for some local celebration which will draw people from the surrounding country, and so make a 'boom' in business. The circus comes along and draws a bigger crowd than any local celebration could possibly draw, and brings not one sort of people that would be attracted by the local celebration, but 'all sorts and conditions of men.'"

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, MAY 3, 1889.

We will print some interesting matter about the Washington Centennial on our outside pages next week.

Oklahoma, the one-time land of promise, has turned out to be a land of sand-storms, stagnant water, and small-pox. What disappointed hopes have failed to accomplish towards depopulating the recently populated territory disease will likely complete, if recent reports from its mushroom cities are verified

The Pennsylvania Legislature attended the Celebration in New York on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and the people paid the expense, which is said to be $1000 a day. This is simply legalized robbery. If members of the legislature want to go on a pleasure trip they have a perfect right to do so, but they ought not to compel the state to foot the bills. It is well enough to be patriotic, and very easy too, when some one else pays for it.

A terrible railroad accident occurred on Sunday on the Grand Trunk Railway near Hamilton, Ontario, by which twenty lives were lost. The train was composed of an engine, two baggage cars, a smoker, three coaches, a Pullman car and two sleepers.

The accident occurred at the junction, where a "Y" is built. This "Y" is used to switch through trains for Toronto on to the Toronto branch from the main line.

The train is said to have been running at the rate of forty miles an hour or more. When directly on passing the switch the engine jumped the track and plunged into a water-tank which stood in a space between the "Y", smashing the tank into atoms and turning the engine upside down.

The baggage cars came directly after the engine, and the first of these was pitched over the engine and thrown on the main track, leaving its wheels behind it. The other baggage car caught fire from the engine and the two were soon in flames.

The coaches following, with the exception of the two Wagner cars in the rear of the train, were huddled together by the shock, and soon caught fire from the baggage cars. The passengers on the train, numbering over 150, many of whom were asleep, at the time, had a terrible experience. Large slivers of iron and wood flew in all directions, and the confusion among the passengers can better be imagined than described.

The majority of those aboard the train were enabled to get out of the coaches before the fire reached them, but in the confusion which reigned it is not known how many victims were left to the mercy of the flames, pinned in by the material of the wreck and unable to extricate themselves.

Two dead bodies, and the remains of fifteen others were taken from the ruins.

Seven cars including one baggage, two first class coaches, a smoker, a first-class day coach, and two Wagner sleepers were burned, there being not a vestige of wood or anything that would burn left. One car, the baggage was demoralized, and the engine was the most complete wreck imaginable.

The loss to the company will be enormous. Many of those in the train were on their way to New York to take part in the Centennial festivities. Among them was a part of the Detriot Light infantry, but none of them were injured, with the exception of one who got a slight cut over his eye.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, April 29, 1889

President Harrison has refused to extend the time for the Railway Mail Service to pass under the rules of the Civil Service Commission. Consequently no appointment can be made in that branch of the government service after May first, except through the Civil Service Commission. This action was taken in opposition to the wishes of Postmaster General Wanamaker, who has asked to have the time extended.

The President and the rest of the administration with its wives, daughters, sons, cousins, and aunts, to say nothing of the grandchildren, left here on a special train (furnished them free) shortly after 1 o'clock this morning en route to New York to take part in the Centennial celebration of George Washington's inauguration. The office seekers and Congressmen disappeared with the appointing powers, but most of them will probably be back by the last of the week.

The most thoroughly disappointed man in the United States—Billy Mahone, of Virginia—had quite a long interview with the President on Saturday, and it is said that he made a most piteous appeal for recognition of some sort. He is no longer choice about what he gets. He started out by demanding a Cabinet position, but now he humbly asks to be allowed to name a few of the smaller Federal officials in Virginia, and it is by no means certain that even that privilege is to be allowed him.

President Harrison as a lawyer must be familiar with the old English legal maxim which says "the receiver of stolen goods is as bad as the thief," but his action in cutting the acquaintance of his old friend W. W. Dudley, who organized the doubtful voters of Indiana into "blocks of five", and stole the state, proves that he does not believe in the aforesaid maxim. It has been hinted around Washington for some time that President Harrison had refused to speak to Col. Dudley since the latter was unfortunate enough to get shown up in the "blocks of five" business. Could it be because the President disapproves of such crookedness? Why, Dudley has been one of his crookedest and ablest lieutenants for Lo these many years, and it was for just such work that he, by special request, had Dudley treasurer of the Republican National Committee. Gen. Harrison did not seem to object to the crookedness then, on the contrary he accepted all the benefit therefrom. But when Col. Dudley was stupid enough to be caught, Gen. Harrison's virtue developed, and he resolved to have nothing more to do with such a very wicked man as Dudley. It is strange that every body else should know of Col. Dudley's dark ways all these years and that the President should have been entirely ignorant.

Dudley, himself, has made the rumored snubbing a certainity by giving out a letter which he wrote to a gentleman in Indiana, who had asked his influence in getting an office for which he was an applicant. The following paragraph from Dudley's letter tells the whole story:

"Perhaps there is no one in the whole country who has done so much for General Harrison during the last twenty years as I have, but because our Democratic friends down in Indianapolis have started the hue and cry on me, brother Ben does not seem to feel that he can afford to recognize me as an acquaintance and consequently I dont take dinner at the White House as might be expected."

If President Harrison believed his friend Dudley to have been such a rascal that he could not afford to recognize him as an acquaintance, would he not have been more consistent to refuse the fruits of that rascality—the Presidency? No sane man doubts that New York was carried by the same methods as Indiana. If Col. Dudley is a thief, who is the receiver of the stolen goods?

Private Secretary Halford says that the President's health has not been better in twenty years than it is now. This story is gotten up for out-of-town consumption; it will not pass here where people can see the President's chalk face and the watery looking puffs under his eyes.

Senator Stewart continues to pound away at the silver question, but he has not yet been able to persuade the administration to increase its monthly purchase of bullion. He still hopes to do so.

Senators Sherman and Quay who have been saying uncomplimentary things about each other, have shaken hands and outwardly made up, but they have both doubtless made up their minds to get even with the other at the first opportunity.

The General Land Office will investigate the charges that Government officials took advantage of their official positions for taking possession fraudulently of choice town lots and homesteads in Oklahoma before the bona fide settlers arrived.

DR T. HEMAN BREHMER, an eminent German authority, says: 'Consumption is always due to deficient nutrition of the lungs, caused by bad blood." At the Brompton Hospital for consumptives, London, Eng., a statement has been published that 52 per cent. of the patients of that institution have unsuspected kidney disorder. This explains why the proprietors of Warners Safe Cure claim that they have received many testimonials which they have not published, because of the incredulity with which they would be received were it claimed that Warner's Safe Cure cures consumption. But the fact is that if your kidneys be cured and put in a healthy condition they expel the uric acid and poisonous waste matter, and prevent the irritation of the delicate substances of the lungs, thereby removing the cause. When the effect is removed the symptom of kidney disease, which is called consumption disappears, and with it the irritation which caused it.

The Manufacturer Kicks.

The Manufacturers' club, of Philadelphia, composed of members who favor a "protective tariff" publishes a fortnight review called the Manufacturer which is supposed to reflect the views of the club.

An issue some time ago contained spicy reading about republican political bosses and the evil fruits of their mismanagement of the party in the Quaker city. This publication naturally created some excitement but not half as much as an article in the last issue which denounced the business of granting pensions, said it was time to put the knife into it and declared that the nation's generosity had been imposed upon and abused, as about one-fourth of all the pensions granted had been fraudulently obtained.

This is rather bold talk for a monopolistic journal to indulge in. In the next issue the Manufacturer ought to treat of the high tariff and its beneficiaries. It could doubtless present some interesting reading on that subject.—Patriot.

Disgusted With Oklahoma.

TERRIBLE PRIVATIONS AND SUFFERING AMONG THE SETTLERS.

Chaos reigns not only in Oklahoma, but in the entire tributary country. The railroad is prostrated, communications are entirely cut off. The Western Union, with its crush of train dispatching, would not touch a message of another character in the Territory though the earth swallowed a town site. Guthrie's back seems broken, and there is a furious stampede to get out. People there are wild from the deprivations that lack of shelter, water and food impose upon them. To these distresses are added the misfortunes of tempest, heat and the absence of means of flight.

When the reporter reached Willow Springs from the Diamond Bar Ranche he learned from the dispatches that neither the north or south-bound passenger trains, due, had been heard from. An hour of waiting passed, when a train of twenty cattle cars crept up from the South. The cars were locked, but upon the roofs, the buffers, amid the coal on the tender, on the pilot and the gangway of the locomotive and packed in upon the caboose was a dense and miser ble throng of men. The train from Guthrie had started with its strange load at 6 o'clock in the evening. It was useless to enforce the laws restrictive of railroad travel.

The people were fleeing practically for their lives. They had added to long privation the suffering of seventeen hours without food or protection from the cold. No train had passed them and none was in sight behind. They had left a howling mob in Guthrie baffled in its efforts to join in the flight. The uselessness of proceeding to Guthrie was apparent, and the correspondent secured a footing for one foot, and returned to this point with the laggard train.

A terrible storm raised the miseries of Guthrie to almost a horror. A violent wind storm arose as the sun sank and filled the air with stifling red alkali dust that strews the plains. A deluge of rain succeeded and through the night it beat upon the thousands of shelterless people.

Just Married.

How loving they are; this is always a sure sign. After the first year sometimes it don't hold good. When Charles comes home to you grouty and cross, snappingand snarling, unable to relish the nice dinner you have cooked, and feels as though there was a ton of pig iron in his stomach, he is troubled with dyspepsia, and Sulphur Bitters is the only medicine that will cure him.

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequalled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, is the most popular and successful medicine before the public today for purifying the blood, giving strength, creating an appetite.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I suffered from wakefulness and low spirits, and also had eczema on the back of my head and neck, which was very annoying. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I have received so much benefit that I am very grateful, and I am always glad to speak a good word for this medicine." MRS. J. S. SNYDER, Pottsville, Penn.

Purifies the Blood

Henry Biggs, Campbell Street, Kansas City, had scrofulous sores all over his body for fifteen years. Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him.

Wallace Buck, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., suffered eleven years with a terrible varicose ulcer on his leg, so bad that he had to give up business. He was cured of the ulcer, and also of catarrh, by Thursday of last week a wreck occurred on the Sunbury, Hazleton and Wilkesbarre road about four miles above Danville. The early morning freight, with engine 779, ran on to a burning bridge or trestle across a small creek, and the whole thing gave way, dropping the engine into the creek, piling an oil car and seven loaded cars on top of it. The engineer escaped by jumping A brakeman named Maloney was thrown some distance by the shock and was badly bruised and burned. The wreck took fire and was totally destroyed. Travel was delayed about twelve hours.

"Going to Oklahoma, are you?" said one passenger to another.

"Yes, sir."

"You're foolish to do so. There will not be enough land to supply half the settlers."

"So I've heard."

"And there's likely to be an awful lot of shooting. Why, it's positively dangerous to go."

"Yes, I think you're right about it."

"Well, then, why are you going?"

The notices to revenue tax payers stating that Deputy Collector Buckingham would sell licenses at his office on April 29th and 30th, were prepared more than a month ago. When Mr. Buckingham returned home on Saturday night, after a weeks absence on official business, he found an order from the Treasury Department notifying him to close his office on April 30th, which day was celebrated as the centennial of our National Government. Mr. Buckingham sent notice to all he could reach not to call for licenses till Thursday May 2nd.

The concert given at the Opera House last Friday evening by the Young People's Social Club of the Presbyterian church was attended by a goodly audience, considering the state of the weather. It was certainly a highly appreciative audience, as nearly every number received a hearty recall. This part of the programme was carried to excess by the audience, as it imposed double labor upon those who took part on the stage. The singing of the quartette, was without accompaniment and their rendition was excellent. Mrs. Lockard has a rich, full contralto voice of wonderful range, her high tones being very clear, and her low ones remarkably low. She and Mr. Lockard and Mr. Adams all received warm welcomes on their first appearance in Bloomsburg. Miss Miller is too well known as a vocalist to require any comment. She sang with fine expression, and her well trained voice was most delightful, as it always is. To her, the people of this town are indebted for the rare treat afforded them at the concert.

Miss Mann of Sunbury played some of the piano accompaniments, and several instrumental pieces. She is a skilful performer, with fine touch and finished execution. She was twice encored.

The Bloomsburg Orchestra consisting of C. P. Elwell, conductor, H. G. Eshleman, R. Drinker, Alex. Cohen, E. Searles and Harry Houck, contributed much to the pleasure of the evening. They played four selections, and considering the brief time that they have been organized, they play exceedingly well, and are constantly improving

The club realized about $40 from the entertainment.

The body is more susceptible to benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla now than at any other season. Therefore take it now.

Services were held in the Presbyterian and Episcopal churches on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, in accordance with the recommendation of the President. On April 30, 1789, services were held in St Paul's church, New York, at which George Washington was present. The form of service used at St. Paul's church, Bloomsburg, and in fact by Episcopal churches all over the land, was very similiar to that used 100 years ago.

If you want the latest style in men's boy's and children's wear go to Lowenberg.

The value of a remedy should be estimated by its curative properties. According to this standard, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and most economical blood medicine in the market, because the most pure and concentrated. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

Letter from Dr. Ammerman.

GREENWOOD, Delaware Apr. 25d 1889.

EDITORS COLUMBIAN:—It has been some time since I last wrote you, and many changes have taken place in my native county as seen in the columns of the COLUMBIAN, which comes to us regularly every week. The relentless hand of death has taken from earth those with whom we have in other years had friendly intercourse. Our hearts are particularly sad at this time on account of the death of Mrs. F. S. Kinports of Cannons Del. "formerly of Bloomsburg Pa." who departed this life on Friday the 19th inst. She had been in a decline for about six months, having contracted a cold in the fall which developed into Pharyngeal Phthisis "Throat Consumption" thus taking from our midst one who was universally respected and loved by the community for her generous disposition, and christian character. The remains were taken to Annville, Lebanon Co., Pa. for interment.

Our winter was extremely mild, but the rains of the spring have kept the farmers from getting ahead with their work, though some are about ready to plant corn.

The wheat and grass never looked better and the prospects for a large peach crop is flattering. We think the danger from frost is over as the blossom is now shedding and the peach in a few days will be quite large.

The prospect for small fruits is equally good. The delicious strawberry is now blossoming, the sight of which reminds us that in less than five weeks the tables of all who desire will be loaded with them.

Fish have been in our market every day for the past five weeks. Fresh shad and herring now and in a few days we will have bay trout, the best of all salt water fish. Can buy a pair of large shad for 25 cents. Herring for 6 cts. per doz. and bay trout in season for 25 cents a bushel at the fisheries. The above fish are caught within fifteen miles of here.

This is a lovely day and a ride through this level country to behold the fields of waving grain, and the meadows with their carpeting of grass, the trees putting forth green foliage is a treat to any lover of the beauties of nature. We have enjoyed such a trip to-day.

It has been the custom of the Pennsylvania residents here to meet at the home of some one of the number on Easter of each year, and in accordance with the same the following families met at the home of Benj. F. Dalius on last Sunday, viz: David Stroup's, Elward Wagner's, and your subscriber of Penna. delegation, Wilber Rigaway and lady of Bridgeville, Del., and a Mr. White and wife of near Federalsburg, Maryland, formerly of Tioga Co. N. Y., the day was very pleasantly spent. It was a big crowd to feed but Mrs. D. was more than equal to the occasion. We had such a dinner as Penna. women know well how to prepare, and all did justice to it. It is but justice to Mr Dalius to here give a little description of his farm and the improvements he is making.

It will be remembered by Columbia Co. people that he came here from Fowlersville one year ago last January, and moved on the 130 acres he had bought; it was then very much out of repair and although of a very good natural quality it looked discouraging to begin on, but now it is a pleasure to look over his fields of waving grain and grass and to see the improvements he has everywhere made. I venture the assertion, that no man in the state of Delaware or elsewhere with the same help, can show a better record of improvements in one year than Mr. D. has. The hills and valleys of Centre and Briarcreek can not show nicer land or better wheat than Mr. D. has to-day. His acreage to wheat is 18, rye, 10. Has 1360 peach trees, 50 apple, a lot of pear and plum, ½ acre in strawberries will plant 20 acres of corn and some oats. His farm is worth at least $1000 more than he paid for it.

Yesterday I came by David Stroup's and found his hired man plowing new ground and they were doing it good too. Dave was looking on with a satisfaction that said "go in Collison, you are as good a plow boy as I am." He is making great improvements in his farm. His grain is first rate, rye is out in head and he says he has wheat two feet high.

The health of the country is good, very little sickness at present.

If any of the readers of this article wish to visit Delaware they will find the Summer season pleasant, for there is fruit the whole summer. Our latch string hangs outside. Wishing the friends in Col. Co. well, I remain very respectfully,

C. W. AMMERMAN.

A revivifying of nature's latent forces occurs every spring. At this time, better than at any other, the blood may be cleansed from the humors which infest it. The best and most popular remedy to use for this purpose is Ayer's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla.

Pure, Wholesome Amusement.

THE TREMENDOUS SHOW OF BARNUM AND BAILEY, WHICH IS MORAL AND MIGHTY.

The Barnum and London new 15 United Shows are always American. They may have many European novelties and attractions, but they are essentially a pure, unadulterated American institution. Conducted upon strictly honorable and legitimate business principles, honestly and truthfully presented, and represented in all departments by gentlemen of ability, who have earned a reputation as successful business men. The highest salaries are paid because it is to the advantage of the show to employ gentlemen to represent them, and they must have men of probity, honesty and integrity, and none others are desired in any department. That the show is a great national affair is without doubt. No event creates half as much of a sensation as the event of the Greatest Show on Earth in a town, for the people are aware that nowhere else can they see so truly grand and overwhelming an exhibition or obtain half the fun and amusement. The only wonder about the wonderful affair is that so much can be exhibited for so small an admission price. Just see: there is a black canvass tent for the exhibition of the extensive gallery of living supernatural illusions under the charge of a famous magician, a tent for the exhibition of 380 head of first prize horses called the horse fair, the Paris Olympia Hippodrome, an aquarium, an aviary, an elephant pavillion with two herds of these big monsters, a trained animal department, the wonderful Real Wild Moorish Caravan, with semi-barbarous Bedouins, Bayaderes, Moors, Algerians, and others of the Semitic races, together with their pure Arabian horses, tents of Animal skins, arms, accoutrements, slaves, charming dancing girls, high priests, soothsayers, etc., etc. and all the weird Eastern paraphernalia carried on their religious pilgrimages to the shrine of Mahomet at Mecca. Realistic pictures are seen of the life of these people as it has existed since Biblical times. Their wanderings on the desert, attack on caravans, scenes in camp, on the march, and in battle with the French soldiers, are faithfully presented. Harem incidents, wild feats of Moorish horsemanship, weird playing on musical instruments, and other realistic episodes, are truthfully portrayed. A triple circus in three rings, elevated stage performances, and two enormously large menageries of wild and trained animals are among the principal added attractions this year. There can be no question but that Barnum & Bailey have gotten together this season the biggest and grandest exhibition they ever had, which is a sufficient guarantee to all that it is the best in the world. It will be here on May 11, 1889, and the great parade will take place in the morning at 8 o'clock.

Forced to Leave Home.

Over 60 people were forced to leave their homes yesterday to call for a free trial package of Lane's Family Medicine. If your blood is bad, your liver and kidneys out of order, if you are constipated and have headache and an unsightly complexion, don't fail to call on any druggist today for a free sample of this grand remedy. The ladies praise it, Everyone likes it. Large-size package 50 cents. Apr. 26-6m.

The Benton Post-Office.

EDITORS COLUMBIAN:

I notice the Republican of the 25, is quite jubilant over the appointment of Mr. John Heacock as post-master of Benton and claims quite a victory, when there was no opposition and no democrats asking for the office or expecting to hold it under the present administration and "civil service reform" party. He says that Mr. Heacock was removed under the Democratic administration strictly on partisan grounds, by a few radical democrats. Now let us see how far this partisan matter runs, that strangers not familiar with the affairs of Benton may not be misled by the Republican. After Mr. Heacock had held the office for more than twenty years he was not willing to let go, but went on and circulated his petition long before President Cleveland had taken his seat. It is true that Mr. Heacock had quite a large petition, but the Republican was very careful not to say how his signers were obtained. While President Arthur was yet in office, Mr. Heacock and his friends circulated their petition, and through deception and misrepresentation that no one else wanted the office they got quite a number of signers that they otherwise would not have gotten.

Miss Appleman was quite as competent to fill the office as Mr. Heacock and fully as worthy of it even if she had belonged to the same political party. She had her invalid parents that depended on her for a large part of their support, which she did with great credit to herself. After the democratic party had been in power a reasonable length of time they ask for the office, and in about six months after received the appointment. So you see, Mr. Republican, the Democrats are not so awfully greedy for office after all, at least not so much so as to beg and ask for post-offices under the present administration as did the Republicans when the Democrats came in power. Miss Appleman has filled the office with credit and I think has given general satisfaction to the public. As for Mr. Heacock I have nothing against his having the office, for "to the victors belong the spoils."

A DEMOCRAT.

AUSTIN FLINT, M. D., late professor of the principles of practice of medicine and of clinical medicine in the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, says of Bright's Disease: "Pain in the loins is rarely a prominent symptom, and is often wanting. This statement also applies to tenderness on pressure over kidneys." It is not safe, therefore, to argue that you have not kidney disease because you have no local symptoms of it. Your only sure plan is to use Warner's Safe Cure as soon as the most remote symptoms appear.

What we did in February with Combination Robes (plush novelty with plain to match) is outdone to-day in every way but one—the quantity is small, so small that a week or two is pretty sure to wipe the whole lot out.

The February Robes went for less than prices of the plain material. You shall have these April Robes in many cases for no more than half the cost of the plain material.

Light colors, medium and light weights—Bengaline, Wool Batiste, Cassimir, Melange, Armures, Serges. With plushes that have sold from $2.50 to $7.50.

Robes for $5
Robes for $6
Robes for $8
Robes for $10
Robes for $12

25c Zephyr Ginghams, 18c. Brand new. In twenty handsome stripes, mostly clusters. They carry the flag of Ginghamquality into the lowest-price camp such stuffs ever reached. We have finer Ginghams, of course, and handsomer, but you'll pay double or more for them. These Zephyrs are a manufacturing as well as a trade triumph. America is so close on the heels of Scotland that you'll look again and again before you'll know which is which in Ginghams—except by the price tickets.

Cream Dress Stuffs. Just a skimming. In every weave and weight that Creams ought to be we have them. Half a dozen as they come:

Cream Nun's Veiling—
38 in., 50c 44 in., 75c and $1.
Cream Hemstitched Nun's Veiling—
46 in., 75c, $1 and $1.25.

Cream Batiste—
38 in., 50c.
Cream Cashmere—
34 in., 37½c; 38 in., 50 and 60c; 45 in., 75c.

Wonderfully fine and pretty all-wool Challis at 37½c. Twenty-five or thirty neat, modest styles. Challis of all sorts were never lovelier, but these 37½ centers are nearer to the top in every way than we ever before saw them.

The finest Challis (50 and 60c) in heaps, like foamy billows color-spattered with beauty shapes.

There's a growing call for standard books put up in neat, compact form. Of course we have them all;

Morley's Universal Library. A cheap and handsome reissue of the Masterpieces of the World's Literature. 61 vols., 12mo. 30c each.
The Chandos Classics. A collection of valuable Standard Books. 132 vols., 12mo. 60c each.
Routledge's Pocket Library. A series of little books tastefully bound. 34 numbers, 32mo. 30c each.
Camelot Classics. Handsomely printed books. About 30 vols. 35c each.
Great Writers. A series of lives of some of the greatest writers. 20 vols. 35c each.

Lists of any of these sets will be furnished on application.

You want a cold, dry, odorless place in which to keep perishable things in hot weather. The Refrigerator that supplies that want is the Puritan. No sawdust-packed or dead-air spaces to hold foul smells. The space between the zinc lining and inner frame of poplar is filled with charcoal—the deodorizer, the absorbent. We put the Puritan at the top as best.

Sideboard Refrigerators, $12 to $40; Upright, $8.50 to $60.

Ice Chests, $4.50 to $14.50.

Rain or shine Barnum's big Show will be in Bloomsburg May 11th for one day only. Not so with us, we began our show in 1848 and have continued to show good goods, six days in the week, up to the present. Our expenses are not $6800 per day. They are however enough to make us active from morning until night selling all we can.

Have you seen the latest in parasols and sun umbrellas? We have them. The 126 styles of sateens we show this week are beautiful. The Spring shawls are selling. The jackets are in style. The curtains are being put up. The counterpanes are in demand. But the greatest run is upon dress goods; we have them by the thousand yards, we can meet your purse at any price. This is embroidery time with us, we lead the county in them. You will want a few sets to beautify your table. After the big rain Butter will fall in price; eggs are not effected by rain and will go no lower; bring all you have for our nice goods.

Important to Railroad Men.

A. E. Smith has been for forty-nine years road master on the Boston and Maine system, and is now residing at Great Falls, N. H. He says trackmen, brakemen, firemen, engineers and conductors, as well as baggage masters and expressmen, are subject to kidney disease above all others. All, therefore, will be interested in the statement of his experience. "I have used Brown's Sarsaparilla for kidney and liver troubles, and can truly say it has done more for me than all the doctors I ever employed, and I have had occasion to require the services of the best physicians in the State. My wife also has been greatly benefited by its use.

A. E. SMITH,
Road Master B. & M. R. R."

The kidneys have been labored hard all winter as the pores of the skin have been closed, but now the springtime has come, and they need some aid. Maybe you have that pain across the back; that tired feeling; those drawing down pains. If so, you can get immediate relief by following the example of Mr. Smith and his wife, and use that never failing and grand corrector for the kidneys, liver and blood,

Lost in the Storm.

One of our local editors clipped from a leading magazine extracts from a vivid description of a western blizzard which we have taken the liberty to publish and at the same time suggest to H. H. Warner & Co., the proprietors of the celebrated Warner's Safe Cure, the feasibility of taking therefrom an extract for the introduction of one of their telling advertisements. The following is the description:

"At the close of a dark day in January a solitary horseman wends his way across the open prairie in one of our western territories. He passes at long intervals the lone cabin of the hardy frontiersman. Two or three old settlers, of whom he had inquired the way, have warned him that a storm is approaching, and one of them, with true western hospitality, urges him to find shelter in his cabin for the night. But he declines the proffered kindness and urges his tired horse forward. * * * The sky grows suddenly dark. * * * He decides to seek shelter. * * * The storm increases in its fury. * * * The rider dismounts to warm his fast chilling limbs. * * * Can scarcely breathe. Blindness comes on. Drowsiness steals over him. The end is near. * * * He is lost in the blizzard."

There is no doubt that the terror which seizes the bewildered traveler is similar to that which overcomes one when he learns that he is suffering from an advanced Kidney Disease, and is informed that he is in the last stages of Bright's disease. At first he is informed that he has a slight kidney affection. Later he begins to feel tired. Slight headache. Fickle appetite. Failure of the eye-sight. Cramp in the calf of the legs. Wakefulness. Distressing nervousness. Rheumatic and neuralgic pains. Occasionally pains in the back. Scanty, dark colored fluids, with scalding sensation. Gradual failure of strength.

Any of the above symptoms signify Kidney Affection, but he is told that he is all right. His physician treats him for symptoms and calls it a disease, when in reality it is but a symptom of Kidney trouble. He may be treated for Rheumatic or Neuralgic pains, heart affection, or any other disease which he is most susceptible to. Finally the patient has puffing under the eyes, slight bloating of the ankles and legs. His physician may inform him that it is but the accumulation of blood in his ankles for want of proper exercise.

The bloat continues and reaches his body.

Then he is informed that he has dropsical troubles, and is tapped once or twice. He notices it is difficult to breathe owing to irregular action of the heart, and finally is informed that he has a slight attack of Bright's Disease. Soon his friends are notified that his is an advanced case of Bright's Disease, and that he can live but a short time. His honorable and dignified physician asks for counsel. It is too late. Still he sticks to the old family physician, and the physician knows and has known from the beginning that the patient has been stricken with death for months, for he knows full well that the profession acknowledge they have no remedies for the cure of Kidney Disease.

At last the patient suffocates—is smothered—and dies from dropsical trouble. Or perhaps the disease may not take the form of dropsical tendency, and the patient dies from apoplexy, paralysis, pneumonia or heart trouble. Or it may take the form of blood poisoning. In each form the end is the same. And yet he and his friends were warned by the proprietors of the celebrated remedy known as Warner's Safe Cure, of the lurking dangers of a slight Kidney affection.

The newspapers have published the dangers. Columns of facts have been printed of men dying from advanced Kidney Disease or Bright's Disease. His friends and physician look around with horror and regret for seeming neglect, but he is lost. He did not heed the warning that a storm was approaching. He declined the proffered hospitality, and recklessly went forward into danger. He struggled manfully for a time, but his strength failed, he grew gradually weaker and he was lost to the world. Not in a blizzard, but from the terrible malady which is almost daily occurring in every community, and which is doctored as a symptom instead of what it is, —a mortal disease unless properly treated.

Honor Thy Father and Mother.

TOO MANY SUCCESSFUL MEN ASHAMED OF THEIR HUMBLE PARENTS.

From Good Words.

Young men who come from the country to the town, and who get on in the world, are often ashamed of their parents, of the rustic dress they once wore, and of the simple but honest and kindly ways of their childhood. And too often when they assume the fashionable clothes and adopt the fashionable ways of their new friends they leave behind them the religion of their new friends they leave behind them the religion of their childhood and forget the piety which they learned at a mother's knee. They have outgrown the priestly dress in which their mothers dedicated them to God, and think her religion old-fashioned and worn out. This is false shame. It is a sin against the dearest and most sacred instincts of our nature. So far from being manly, it is mean and dastardly.

Depend upon it, the man who will have most of the esteem of his fellow creatures and of the favor of heaven will be he who keeps unchanged all through life the mantle of heavenly devotion with which his mother clothed him. He who makes the religion of his youth the habit of his life—his garment and way of acting all through —will come to honor and will enjoy the proud blessing of consistency. His life will be a gracious verity, like that of Samuel; it will have one steadfast purpose running through it all. The outer life will be of one piece with the inner; one part will not reproach the other; and what he seems, that he never is.

Adulterating.

Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J., having noted the want of a strictly pure and first-class wine, has for the past thirty-five years devoted his time and capital to raising the Oporto Grape from the vine brought from the Doura valley in Portugal, with the view of supplying this want; that he has been eminently successful, the endorsement which his Port Grape Wine has received from physicians all over this country and in Europe will testify.

"Large checks" for ladies' dresses is an old, old fashion. Ask any man blessed with a wife and daughters.

Manager—How many characters do you say there are in your play? Author—I didn't say there were any. This is a French society drama.

A Philadelphian has constructed a house which he calls "a poem in brick." Should it ignite from a defective flue would he call it a versifier?

Scientist (in restaurant)—Bring me a decoction of burnt peas, sweetened with glucose and lightened with chalk and water. Waiter (vociferously)—Coffy for one?

Dillettante—Do you distinguish the work of an amateur artist by the technique? Artist—it is safer to judge by the big letters he uses in signing his name.

"I admire that man Smith," said Squire Closefit at the club, "even if he is a fraud. He managed to borrow $10 from me the other day, and I admire him for it."

Old hubby—Don't go on so, my dear, just because I spent a little money. I have enough for life. Young wife—But just think of me after you are gone.

John Bright is said to have once told Justin McCarthy that he had a passionate love for doing nothing. It is a sort of Bright's disease that has come to more than one lazy man.

Stranger (after ten years' absence) —What became of Bad, Luck & Co.? When I left they were in financial straits—selling out at cost. Citizen—they are at the old stand—still selling out.

Mrs. Meguinness — An' sure, now, d ye b'lave toat woman in the shanty beyant is Mr. O'Hoolihan's wife? Mrs. Du Grann—Och, there's no doubt about that. Oi've heard him batin' her.

Aunt Deborah (religiously)—Woe to the man who marries those Flybelle girls; for they toil not neither do they spin. Miss Daisy—O Aunt Deborah! you wrong them, indeed you do! I meet them often at dances.

Deacon Drybones (at a meeting to protest against inauguration balls)—Dancing, my brethren and sistern, is simply hugging to music. Unsophisticated sister—Is that all it is? I got an idea somehow that dancing was something wicked.

Mrs. De Culture—"Horrors! Going to marry that young Mr. Hayseed! Are you crazy? He eats pie with a knife." Miss De Culture—"I know it, ma, but I love him." "You'll die of disgust." "No I won't. I'll never have pie."

Said Paddleford to his wife on the way back from the museum: "I am firmly convinced that women have an innate, natural, constitutional love of the horrible." "Good thing for you," she retorted, "or you might have been a bachelor to your dying day."

Wife—I see that our neighbor, Bonds, is down again. Husband—What is it this time? Wheat, I suppose? Wife—No, I think from his appearance that it was rye that has floored him now. And I don't want you to dabble with it any more either.

Mistress—Marie, I saw you kissing a young man at the kitchen door this morning. I want you to understand that I will not stand that sort of thing at all. Marie—Pardon me, madam; I did not know the young man was a friend of yours. It shall not occur again.

Dawdie—Where does this man Alkali come from that desires to join our art club? Bangle—He's from Arizona. Dawdie — Arizona? What does he know about art, any way? Bangle—Why, my dear boy, he told me he was Chairman of the Hanging Committee several times in Coyote Gulch.

Mrs. Ghastor—"O, Mrs. Thoughtly, I was surprised to hear that your eldest daughter is engaged to an Irish tradesman." Mrs. Thoughtly— "Perfectly true. He's a plumber and owns six large shops. He takes us all to Europe after the wedding." "You have my sincere congratulations!"

Touche (airily)—What! Working, old man! I'm just off for the dog show. Billious (wearily) — What prize are you trying for? Touche (angrily)—Well, sir, I'm not entered in the puppy list, at any rate. Billious (promptly)—Thanks, awfully. That gives my pup a walk-over.

She—I understand that you are one of the praying base-ball players and that you are studying for the ministry. In fact, I am told you have just been ordained. He—It is true. "Are you going to take charge of a parish at once?" "Well, I don't know. I have received a call to a mission church at $500 a year; also an offer from the Bostons to sign for $10,000 a year, and I have been wondering whether I hadn't better devote a few more years to base-ball playing before accepting a regular pulpit."

Wife (coming home from church)—Mr. Goodman is certainly a remarkable man. Husband—Why do you think so? Wife—Because he only returned from Europe last week and he didn't begin his sermon with the remark, "When I was in So-and-so."

Philadelphian—"Is it true that the Sorosis Society has gone or is going out of existence?" New York girl—"Yes. You see, everybody knew who the charter members were, and—and—well they thought the society had lived long enough."

De Jones (haughtily)—"I cawn't see, me good man, why you should appeal to me for relief!" Tramp—"Well, sor, Oi saw yez borry somethin' from yer friend down beyant, and as we'd both been broke Oi thought Oi'd trust to yer fellow feelin'!"

Dr. R. A. Gunn, M. D., Dean and Professor of Surgery of the United States Medical College, Editor of the "Medical Tribune," author of "Gunn's New Improved Handbook of Hygiene and Domestic Medicine," says: "Belonging as I do to a branch of the profession which believes that no School of Medicine knows all the truth regarding disease, and being independent enough to use any remedy that will help my patients without reference to the source from which it comes, I am willing to acknowledge and commend thus frankly the value of Warner's Safe Cure.

Booth "Barn-Storming."

HOW HE ONCE PLAYED "SHYLOCK" ON A VIRGINIA STEAMER.

From the Baltimore American.

A story is told of Edwin Booth's experience that is good enough to be true. Once during the days of his early struggles Booth was "barnstorming" down in Virginia, at a place called Lee's Landing. The improvised theatre was a tobacco warehouse, and it was crowded by the planters from miles around. Booth and his companions had arranged to take the weekly steamer expected to call late at night, and between the acts were busy packing up. The play was "The Merchant of Venice," and they were just going on for the trial scene when they heard a whistle and the manager came running in to say that the steamer had arrived and would leave again in ten minutes. As that was their only chance for a week of getting away, they were in a terrible quandary. The narrative proceeds:

"If we explain matters," said the manager, "they will think they are being cheated, and we shall have a free fight. The only thing is for you fellows to get up some sort of a natural-like impromptu ending of the piece and ring down the curtain. Go right ahead, ladies and gentlemen, and take your cue from Ned here," and he hurried away to get the luggage aboard. Ned, of course, was Bassanio, and he was resolved to rely on the ignorance of the Virginnians of those days to pull him through all right. So, when old George Ruggles, who was doing Shylock, began to sharpen his knife on his boot, Booth walked straight up to him and said: "You are bound to have your pound of flesh, are you?"

"You bet your life!" said Ruggles.

"Now, I'll make you one more offer," continued Booth. "In addition to this big bag of ducats I'll throw in two kegs of nigger-head terback, a shotgun and two of the best coon dogs in the State."

"I'm blarmed if I don't do it!" responded Shylock much to the approbation of the audience, who were tobacco-raisers and coon-hunters to a man.

"And to show that there's no ill feeling," put in Portia, "we'll wind up with a Virginny reel."

When they got on board the steamer the captain, who had witnessed the conclusion of the play, remarked:

"I'd like to see the whole of that play sometime, gentlemen. I'm blamed if I thought that fellow Shakespeare had so much snap in him."

RHEUMATISM

For More than Twenty-five Years.—A Complete Recovery.—The Means Used.

I had Inflammatory Rheumatism. For nearly a year I had to be fed and turned in bed. I could find no relief. My stomach was ruined and cut to pieces with powerful medicines taken to effect a cure so that I was compelled to live on bread and water. I suffered for twenty-five years in this way. I was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y., and thanks to this medicine. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is my best friend. With it I am enabled to enjoy a good night's rest. Also food, such as meat and pastry, which I have been deprived of for years, showing that the Favorite Remedy has no equal for the cure of Indigestion and Dyspepsia as well. If any should doubt this statement I will send the ready proof at once.—Garrett Lansing, Troy, N. Y.

I Am Now Well,

It is my pleasure and absolute duty toward those who are struggling for very life against the deadly to add my testimony to the already weighty evidence of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. My wife was a hopeless case, abandoned by the physicians. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was resorted to; not because any hope was placed in it, but because nothing else remained. All means and medicines had been tested without avail. The effect was little short of a miracle. At the second bottle she had received strength, and continuing the treatment has fully recovered.—Jay Sweet, Albany, N. Y.

Punishment in Turkey.

HOW THE BASTINADO IS ADMINISTERED TO THE SULTAN'S SUBJECTS.

From the Cosmopolitan.

I witnessed this punishment in front of the Pasha's palace at Damascus. The culprit was lying full length on the ground, with a brawny Turkish soldier sitting cross-legged on his chest, like a nightmare, by way of making him comfortable, while two men held up the soles of his feet in the air and two others belabored them with long sticks, as if beating a carpet. The victim himself never uttered a sound, but the two who were thrashing him screamed and howled like demons, perhaps to save him the trouble of doing it himself.

The moment the punishment was over up jumped the two other men and flogged the floggers themselves, doubtless for not hitting hard enough, and then a fat Turkish major, who had been watching the whole business with a smile of quiet, heartfelt enjoyment, waddled placidly up and boxed their ears all round, as if he were giving them his blessing, after which the congregation dispersed.

Hints That are Better than Gold.

If you have bad breath, sluggish bowels, pain in the small of your back, nervousness or giddiness, your vital organs are sadly out of condition. A mere "dose of physic" will not help you. Your only wise course is to take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy of Rondout, N. Y., and cleanse your system of the impurities. It regulates the liver and kidneys. 4-26-4t

John Gardiner's Views.

EDITORS COLUMBIAN:

In your issue of April 9 I saw "A business man's view—" John Gardiner of the Southwestern National Bank of Philadelphia who puts it this way. "I have good reason to believe that the passage of the Prohibition Amendment would be very likely to cause a stringency in the money market. Just look at the situation in this light. Fully $100,000,000 of capital invested in the brewery alone would be totally destroyed" &c. John Gardiner therefore speaks in defense of what? Civilization's blot—the corroding canker which corrupts every department of our national life. Considering what the brewery business is and what it accomplishes by way of demoralization of proper and wholesome influences in the social and political world, corrupting morals and intelligence, both individually and collectively, local and general, debasing and humiliating the nobler ambitions which inspire the mind to higher and mightier objects, and blights them like an untimely frost, the buds of living green just in a state of beautiful and useful development, and disappoints the hopes of millions of the fair sex, of maidens, wives, mothers and defenseless and helpless children; say nothing of the disastrous effects it produces upon the business of the country and the trial of criminals it furnishes for the "gibbet" and other institutions which the decrees of penalties formulate for their recepti n is sufficient reason why the traffic should go and go at once, no matter how much invested capital may be sacrificed to the exclusion of a tariff that will extort annually an equal amount of the invested capital from the poor and needy who, in wretchedness and misery eke out a miserable existence.

The tax hobby will be an after consideration for which there is no cause for alarm. The rum traffic taxes the world—the deluded drinkers to death, and the various industries to exorbitant proportions in order to keep the mill of destruction—the devils mill a running. We say turn water on the mill and the rum off.

JOHN C WENNER.

Cambra, April 19 1889.

Ethel—When does your breach of promise suit take place, Clara? Clara (sobbing) — T — to-morrow. Ethel (sympathizingly)—I am sorry to see you so overcome, Clara, dear. Clara —O, it's nothing, Ethel, I am simply practicing for the jury!

Hospital Remedies.

What are they? The growth of intelligence in medical matters has given rise to a demand for a class of genuine, reliable medicines. The opportunity of the ignorant quack, who grew rich curing everything out of a single bottle has passed. To supply satisfactorily this demand this list of remedies has been created. They are the favorite prescriptions of the most famous medical practioners of the day, gathered from the hospitals of London, Paris Berlin and Vienna. Prescriptions which cost the patients of these specialists from $25 to $100, are here offered, prepared and ready for use, at the nominal price of One Dollar Each. Not one of them is a cure all; each one has only the reasonable power of curing a single disease and each one keeps its contract. Sufferers from Catarrh, Diseased Lungs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Fever and Ague, Neuralgia, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa, or Nervous Debility, should send stamp for descriptive catalogue to Hospital Remedy Co., No. 3 1/2 West King St., Toronto, Canada. If your druggist does not keep these remedies remit price and we will send direct free of duty.

TATE SPRINGS, TENN., July 4, 1882

The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.:

Gentlemen—Seven years ago I contracted an exceedingly bad case of blood poison. I tried a physician, the best at command, but secured no benefit. My throat began to get sore, and my body covered with sores and ulcers. Going from bad to worse, I felt that my grave must be reached in the near future. I gave up the doctors' treatment, and with a despairing hope I commenced taking your medicine. I began to improve from the first bottle, and in a short time the ulcers healed, and my skin cleared off and was entirely well.

One year ago a case of catarrh developed in my system. The physician did his best, but could not cure me; but two bottles of Swift's Specific gave me permanent relief.
